LAST WEEK-MR. CLEYELAND GROWING SUSPICIOUS.

Washington, Sept. S.-A tubulated statement as REPRESENTATIVES SPEND MOST OF THE DAY IN to the time occupied by the Senate during the week's POKING FUN AT LIGHT OTHER under Mr. Voorhees's direction, in his patent re-versible and double-riveted exhaustion process, may not be without interest just now. Here it is: Sept. 18-Met at 12 o'clock and adjourned 5:11 p. m.

Sept. 20-Met at 12 o'clock and adjourned 6:30 p. m. Sept. 21-Met at 12 o'clock and adjourned 7.31 p. m. Sept. 22-Met at 12 o'clock and adjourned 6:10 p. m. Sept. 23-Met at 12 o'clock and adjourned 4:00 p. m. It will be seen, therefore, that Mr. Voorhees, after numerous threats and appeals, succeeded only in keeping the Senate together during last week for a little less than thirty-five hours. But even this was not all consumed in the consideration of repeal or even closure. If there be deducted three hours spent in executive session according to the record on Monday to the centearry of the laying of the foundation stone of the Capitol, and a further six bours taken up in the course of the last five days by the transaction of miscellaneous business, there remains a grand total of a little less than uventyremains a grand total of during the week, five hours and a quarter devoted one hours spent in the discussion of repeal and closere during the past week by the Senate of the United States, Democratic by five majority, under the efficient, energetic and aggressive leadership No wonder the Administration is beginning to grow suspicious of the Indiana statesman. The President is understood to have inquired rather frequently of late whether Mr. Voorhees was really doing as much as he could, and Secretary Carlisle has been more than once of late at the Senate end of the Capitol to see if his former colleague is conducting the repeal campaign with the energy and zeal that is required. Mr. Voorhees is to be pitted There was hardly ever a man subjected these days. to such galling cross fire as he is. Old cronies of his in the House, who now sie with him in the , men like Harris and Cockrell, will hardly speak to him. They rather pass him by. He is hammered right and left at home for turning away from an uninterrupted inflation career of thirty is watched and distrusted by friends and fee alike. Worse than all, the President is beginning to "hold up" appointments in Indiana to which Mr Voorhees thinks himself rightfully entitled, as they may affect his re-election. But Mr. Cleveland is callous, and under one pretext or other refuses to nominate Mr. Voorhees's friends The passage of the repeal bill may change all this. but meanwhile Mr. Voorhees is desperately ill at

To-day's debate turned chiefly upon closure. which has become an inseparable phase of repeal. Mr. Turple delivered a curious argument which culminated in a declaration, delivered without the slightest recognition of the humor it contains, to the effect that closure was "suppression, repreand a statesman suppressed." As may well be imagined, Mr. Turple was unwilling to pose as a "suppressed statesman." Of the same mind was Mr. Cull. who, after announcing that the press was "in control and ownership of the great money interests of the country," spoke of "The Congres sional Record" as "one of the most important in strumentalities for the preservation of public lib erty and for the development of the business and welfare of the great masses of the people." As one of the contributors to the pages of the Record. Mr. Call can fairly lay claim to having developed the paper business if he cannot justly lay claim to anything else. Messrs. Vilas and Hoar made some rather pertinent comments upon the speech of Mr. Turple without, however, succeeding in drawing

At 2 o'clock, without having taken up the Rep bill, the Senate went into executive session and adjourned at 4 o'clock.

Repeal is no nearer than it was when the Senate, still Democratic by a majority of five, first took up the Voorhees bill for consideration.

MR. STEWART HITS AT THE PRESIDENT. PROCEEDINGS IN THE SENATE-ARGUMENTS ON THE CLOSURE RESOLUTION.

Washington, Sept. 23. dar. Stewart (Rep., Nev.) offered the following resolution and said that he would address the Senate upon it next Monday:

Resolved. That the independence of the co-ordinate de ecutive and the Judicial, must be maintained, and the

the use of the power and influence of one department to control the action of another is in violation of the Constitution and destructive of our form of government. The closure resolution was taken up, and Mr

Turple (Dem. Ind.) addressed the Senate in oppoition to it. There had been, he said, but one way since 1806 of bringing about a vote in the Senate on any measure, and that way was "unanimous consent." Theoretically it might be said that under it one member of the body might at any time prevent a vote. But such cases had been extremely rare and uncommon in the Senate. It would be seen that practically one member ob jecting to unanimous consent became a conspicuous object of attack, so that whatever effect the rule of unanimous consent had had, it had not had the effect of menacing important legislation. It had been said that the majority in this country ruled, and that therefore the majority in the Senate should rule. That statement was much too broad when applied to the whole country or to the Senate. It would be much better put in this way "The will of the majority as expressed under the forms of law should rule." The first form of law for the Senate was the Constitution of the United States, and the second form was the rules established by the majority which controlled action. Closure, he declared, was suppression, repression.

and a member of the Senate repressed was sure to be sent back by the people, no longer in the minority, but in the majority. A vote by force was not a vote. A vote by compulsion was not free action. He cited cases in the reign of the Stuart kings of England, and argued from them that obstruction was an extreme remedy. But in his mind there was no reason for either extreme-that of closure or that of obstruction. A middle ground could be found and adopted with much greater ease than

Mr. Vilas (Dem., Wis.) commented on a statement of Mr. Turple that the only rule in the Constitution governing the Senate was that providing that on the demand of one-fifth the roo should be called. He suggested to Mr. Turple that was still another rule in the Constitution applicable to both houses, and that was that either bouse might, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member. He asked whether Mr. Turpts onistic and contradictory.

Mr. Turple replied that he did not consider them all contradictory, because the rule as to onefifth applied to only legislative business.

Mr. Hoar (Rep., Mags.) asked him whether he made any distinction, in the matter of closure, between the Senate and the House. Mr. Turple admitted that he did, because he regarded the Senate us the refuge and asylum of minorities; and he wanted that asylum to be in-

Mr. Dubois (Rep., Idaho) was opposed to the introduction of a closure rule in the midst of an exciting debate. Mr. Call (Dem., Fla.) opposed the closure resolution, because he regarded it as a proposition to forbid debate, and to close the only avenue of intercourse between the Senate and the great mass of the people. The closure resolution was then, on the motion of Mr. Platt (Rep., Conn.), its author, referred to intention to go before that committee and submit the Senate. (Dem., Ind.) to take up the Repeal bill; but Mr. Jones (Dem., Ark.) reminded Senators that there was a matter pending in executive session which would occupy the remainder of the day. It was suggested by Mr. Voorhees that it would be time enough to go into executive session at 4 o'clock; and Mr. McPherson (Dem., N. J.) wanted to know whether any question of appointments to office was of sufficient importance to justify neglect or delay as to the Repeal bill. The discussion, in the opinion of Mr. Chandler (Rep., N. H.), was drifting too dangerously near to a revelation of executive secrets; and finally Mr. Voorhees himself submitted the motion, and the Senate proceeded to executive

STATESMEN AS HUMORISTS.

Washington, Sept. 23.-The House was amused this morning by a question of privilege raised by Mr. Bretz (Dem., Ind.). It was in regard to the Sept. 13-Met at 12 o'clock and adjourned 5-25 p. m. failure of the Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General in declining to change postmasters in a little village in his district. Some time ago he had had oc casion to recommend the change. He had filed charges against the incumbent, and had filed letters in support of those charges. That recommendation

Mr. Burrows (Rep., Mich.) remarked that the story was an interesting one, but he could hardly see how it presented a question of privilege. "Oh," suggested Mr. Cannon (Rep., III.), in mock seriousness, "it may be a case of impeachment.

Mr. Bretz thought that the reading of the letter would show what his question of privilege was.

A letter from the postmaster to Mr. Bretz was read, asking that he might be retained in office. The postmaster declared that he was a Democrat, and went on to say: "I will make you a present of $15 if you will let me keep the office. I shust make you a present of this sum. (Laughter.) I hope you will keep this letter as strictly private between me and you." (Laughter.) On this letter, said Mr. Bretz, he had filed a charge of bribery. He had personally called the attention of the Fourth Assistant Postmaster-Gen eral to the fact, and had asked for a change. He had been refused. (Laughter.) He then offered a resolution for the appointment of a committee of three members to investigate the reason why Robert A. Maxwell, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, had not made the change requested Speaker said that this was not a privileged resolution. Then Mr. Bretz asked unanin sent for its consideration, but to this Mr. Tracey (Dem., N. Y.) objected, and the incident ended.

The report of the Committee on Accounts, giving an additional clerk to the Committee on Naval Affairs, was postponed until Monday, and the House, in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to the consideration of the bill remitting the penalties on account of delay in the construction of the dynamite cruiser Vesuvius. Pending action, the morning hour expired, and the comittee rose.

The Printing bill was then laid before the House

THE INDIAN AGENCIES STRUGGLE. Washington, Sept. 23.-The subject of the twoman of the Committee on Indian Affairs, said by way of argument in favor of the session that there was some business before the Senate area. one of the executive departments desired as speedy action as possible. It was noted, however, that when the session was ended speedy action had been enled. The subject before the Senate was the apointments made to Indian agencies by the Presi dent in the States of Minnesota, Nevada, North Dakota and Idaho. The struggle that had been going on in committee was merely transferred to the full Senate, but with poor success. Many of these appointments are those of men who do not reside n the States where the agencies are located, and Republicans have called attention to the fact that this is in open violation of the home-rale plank of the Democratic platform. It became evident that definite action could not be had to-day, and after confirming a batch of other nominations the Senate

The condition of the mining region is indeed hopeless.

SCHOOL WORK AMONG THE INDIANS. Washington, Sept. El-Commissioner Browning of the Indian Bureau, in his annual report to the Secretary of the Interior, submits estimates for the year ending June 30, 1895, aggregating $5,981,756, which is $195,639 less than the present appropriation. The advance in Indian school work during the year is said to be encouraging as compared with the last several years. The number of pupils enrolled in 1891 was 17,926; in 1892, 19,907, and in 1893, 21,138.

Opposition to Isaac H. Maynard, the judicial culprit who stole the genuine election certificate of Dutchess County from the office of the Secretary of State in Albany a year ago last December 1 and made the Hill conspiracy against popular anfirage successful, has broken out in an unexsected quarter. It has been known that the plan of the Democratic State machine to nominate Maynard at Saratoga on October 5 is generally disinsteful to the Anti-Snappers or Cleveland Demorats, and the New-York Democracy, led by Police istice Voorhis, last Monday night declared opposition to placing Maynard on the ticket. COUNSEL FOR THE STATEN ISLAND RAPID TRANSIT RAILROAD COMPANY PROTESTS

AGAINST ITS VALUATION. The assessment question on Staten Island to still one of absorbing interest to the property owners. Many of them seem to think that there will be an amicable settlement of the differences. and that an appeal to the courts will be un-

Mr. Boardman, of Tracy, Boardman & Platt, appeared before the Board of Assessors yesterday on behalf of the Rapid Transit Railroad Company, whose assessment has been raised from $350,000 to $2,000,000. Mr. Boardman arrued the case for an hour and a half, and produced figures and estimates to show that the property of the Rapid Transit Raifroad Company should be valued at about $650,000. Instead of $2,000,000. He disputed the right of the Board of Assessors to assess a large part of the company's property, and especially the piers of the company at St. George. Mr. Boardman appeared yesterday only for the railroad company, but he will again argue before the assenzors as attorney for property holders, and also for the Old Staten Island Railread Company, which runs from Clifton to Tottenville. Richard L. H. Finch is acting as counsel for the Board Chairman Moore, of the Board of Assessors, in speaking of the trouble yesterday, said: "It is not a political matter, and a thorough airing is what we want. We know that in former years the assessed value had been too low, and now we are only endeavoring to arrive at the true and real value of the property. We will assess only 50 per cent of what we consider the value of the property. Property owners cannot deny that their property has been greatly undervalued. Mr. Boardman placed prices on property of the Rapid Transit Railroad Company which, if offered in the market, would be greedily snapped up."

SONS OF HERMANN ELECT OFFICEES. New-Haven, Conn., Sept. 23,-The Sons of Hermann, the oldest German seciety in America, closed their quadrennial convention here last night, after a four days' session. Two important changes were made in their constitution. It was voted to allow honorary members to lower the age for admission from twenty-one to eighteen years. The place of meeting for the next convention, in 1897, was decided on as New-Ulm, Minn. The following supreme officers were elected: President, Paul Gpbhard, New-Haven, Conn.; first vice-president, Joseph Sante, Chicago; second vice-president, Albert Paegel, New-Ulm, Minn.; secretary, Richard Schaefer, New-Britain; treasurer, Conrad Walther, Chicago.
